The new dry, white wine from the mountain vineyards of Samos

They didn't name Samos "Lady of the Vineyards" in vain: The rich tradition of the island of Samos in crafting select wines traverses across the passage of ancient times. In paying tribute to its name yet one more time, the "Lady of the Vineyards" brings us "Psilés Korfés", a new, dry white wine from the island's choicest mountain terroirs.

On the tall peaks of Ambelos, the verdant mountain of Samos, vines take root on stone terraces that were once fashioned by hand, narrow strips of land and slate defying gravity and made hardy so as to retain and drain the precious soil. It is there, at an altitude of 800 meters above sea level, that the Samos Muscat variety, suspended between the blue of the sky above and the azure of the Aegean below, expresses itself in a unique way, yielding a dry, white, wine of sophisticated aromatic character and finesse.

It is precisely these characteristics that make "Psilés Korfés", a fresh, pleasant wine that provides delightful company for any occasion! Its brilliance and pale, yellow-green hues bear witness to its freshness, while the nose makes a pleasant display of the floral aromas, typical of muscat, with impressive notes of white, fleshy fruit (melon and peach), playfully weaving their way in. The mouth is predominantly fruity followed closely by the variety's floral touches of rose petal sweet preserves. Its refreshing acidity as well as its endpalate of satisfactory intensity whirl into a harmonious bouquet: Enjoy this wine chilled at 8°-10°C, on its own or as the perfect accompaniment for a variety of Greek traditional dishes or international cuisine creations. Try seafood or sweet and sour delicacies with it: They will prove the most faithful of companions for this wine!

"Psilés Korfés" is a product of the Union of Vinicultural Cooperatives of Samos and just like the rest of the Union's products it is distributed in the Greek market by V.S. KAROULIAS.
